

NATURE'S CATARRH CURE.

Sensible and Scientific Way to Cure this Disagreeable Disease.

In no other way can catarrh be cured as naturally and quickly as by the use of Hyomei, which is applied through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit.

In this way all the air that enters the nasal passages, the throat or the lungs, is filled with Hyomei's healing medication, reaching the most remote cells of the respiratory organs, and soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane.

So strong is Lamar Wood's faith in the power of Hyomei to cure catarrhal troubles, that with every dollar outfit he sells, he gives a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50c.

Alfred Rigg's new house, north of the school building and adjacent to the park, is now being completed and is now ready for the plasterers. It is a splendid building, neat, commodious and modern and takes rank with the best residences in our town. Gilliam and Co. are the contractors. Summers is foreman on the job. It was built under bad weather conditions but pushed through the same way that attended the attention of strangers visiting in our town. For proof of the fact that nothing is still in Center we refer to Dug Crawford and George W. of Monroe City who heard the sound of the saw hammer last Monday night in the night shift came on we live in a live town but best of nights.—Center Herald.

Fox Hounds.

And they were beauties, well broke and of the best strains of blood, you bet, or Vint C. Spalding would never have shipped them away from home.

During the past few days he has sent one to H. C. Butcher, Desburg, Ill., two to H. L. Hardy, Rutledge, Mo., and one to John Epperson and E. Light, Callao, Mo.

Why does the DEMOCRAT talk so often of Vint's hounds? Because his kennels have a national reputation and the man that buys one of the beauties pays about the same price he would have to pay for an expert steer.

Pastoral Peace.

Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, did the other day of a disappointing industrial stock:

The people that had their eyes in this stock felt, when it dropped, a shock akin to the which was incurred by a philanthropist at one of our big hotels.

"For an experiment this philanthropist recently sent a child from the New York slums to the country. To this child raised among slum horrors, all the beauty and poetry of a pastoral life was offered. Thus the philanthropist expected to give the youngster an aesthetic education.

"Well, the other day the man went to see his charge. She is a little girl. He took her on his knee, glanced with approbation about the quaint old farm kitchen, and said:

"And do you find the country very beautiful, my dear?"

"Oh, beautiful," the youngster answered.

"And what have you seen during your week's sojourn here?"

"I've seen eighty-seven turkeys killed and a man's nose broken in a pumpkin raffle."

Missouri Notes

When a man refuses to let his wife trim his whiskers it is a sign his love is growing cold, observes an editor.

James Saunders is the oldest member of the Christian church in Maryville. He has been active in the church for sixty seven years.

To celebrate the opening of a new hotel in Butler a dinner was served to the newspaper men, and now whenever any of those who were guests feel a little indisposed they imagine they are getting the gout.

A Cameron editor thinks the offense of abstracting papers from the office of a printing shop should be made punishable by law. He is not running his shop for the purpose of getting out free souvenirs.

Anyone who is afraid of infection in dollar bills is invited by the editor of the Liberal Enterprise to bring them to him as he has had the mumps, scarlet fever, whooping cough, smallpox and a variety of diseases. Besides, he wants the money.

A Republican country paper says that in the recent election Republicans scratched more than the Democrats, three to one, and adds, "this is what kills our party." Scratching may not absolutely kill, but too much of it has often caused raw places that are a long time healing," says the Brookfield Gazette.

Being an editor is the easiest thing in the world, says one of profession. All you have to do is to: "Learn how to be cheerful, long suffering, going about doing good for evil, write puffs of marriages and festivals and in return accept a hunk of cake that would sink an iron clad; perjure your soul lying about the pretty babies and lovely brides; with the gay and mourn with the disconsolate; boom every enterprise and go about yourself clothed in a gunny sack and one suspender; glory over the fortune of your neighbor and eat boiled corn cobs and colored labels off beans; learn how to write a sermon or report a prize fight, political speech or shape an obituary, write poetry, split wood, wash dishes, curry horses, preside at a campmeeting, quote law or scripture, and flirt with the widows—away from home.

Dock and Miss Lotte Lange, of Hunnewell, spent Sunday with their brother and his interesting bride, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lange.

Friday.

Friday is the most maligned day of the calendar. Why Friday should suffer from taunt and abuse more than other days is a mystery, since it cannot be held accountable for the events which made it so.

That superstition which makes Friday the day of evil has its origin in the fact that it was the day of the crucifixion and then, too, Adam and Eve are supposed to have eaten the fatal apple one Friday afternoon. It became hangman's day rather as a result of the superstition than one of its causes.

Peculiarly enough, Buddhists and Brahmins, alike with Christians, hold to this same distrust of Friday; but as there are always exceptions, so here the canny but contrary Scot regards it the best day of all the week for weddings and celebrations.

Truth is, Friday has played an important part in the making of our history which should rather endear the day to patriotic Americans. Columbus is said to have discovered America on Friday. It was the day of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers on the Massachusetts coast. George Washington was born on Friday and it was the day of the battle of Bunker Hill and of the battle of New Orleans. In European history it has been no less important. It was the day of the birth of Queen Victoria and of Shakespeare. It was the day of the fall of the Bastille, of the execution of Charles I, of the battle of Marston. Many of these events may have brought misfortune to some, but they worked for the general good.

The list might be continued until Friday could be made to look like All Saints' Day. But is not this sufficient evidence that Friday is not so black as it has been painted, even if it has sometimes been the victim of circumstances.—Atlanta Constitution.

Come Easy in Florida.

The Florida Times-Union has the following comment on a fish story not "to the manner born."

"The London Mail is amazed at the story of a fisherman who found he had hooked a little fish which was swallowed by a perch, a trout, took the perch and a pike took the trout, so that the fisherman had a break fast when all came in. Now, in Florida it would have been easy to have an alligator take the pike and find the gater had swallowed the fisherman upon coming to land. If you want to catch real fish stories why linger on the wrong side of the pond?"

So much for Florida. But it is a fact that here in Georgia, a fisherman who went to sleep on a river bank, having previously divested himself of his boots, and placed a small flask of whiskey in a bootleg, for safety was horrified to see an alligator in the act of swallowing the boot containing the whisky. This feat the saurian accomplished, and cut such queer capers thereafter that the fisherman decided he "had 'em" in earnest, and made a bee-line for home—but not before he witnessed a circus performance of the alligator, which tried to convince him that it could stand on its head, and was perfectly at home climbing trees.—Con-

How about your Barn?

Have you a valuable horse, or a number of fine cattle and sheep? If so, you know that colds, rheumatism and other ailments frequently result in serious losses.

You know that a damp barn is at the bottom of the trouble. You may think your barn is dry, but is it? If you say so, then, roof it with

Huttig's Rubber Roofing

Non-absorbent, unlike any other rubber roofing known—then cover the sides with it and you will have a barn that will be as dry as powder and absolute proof against loss.

Huttig's Rubber Roofing, non-absorbent, hence impervious to frost and dampness. Cool in the summer, warm in the winter, always just right for your fine stock. At the end of the year the actual expense you have saved in the health and condition of your stock, not to speak of worry, will more than pay for all the Rubber Roofing you have used. As experienced lumber dealers in we make the assertion that no roofing will accomplish the same purposes as Huttig's Rubber Roofing and think of the price compared with other materials. You can't afford to buy the other if you can buy Huttig's.

Mill Work, Interior Finish and Building Material of every description
